i) Began with stating that topic has been allotted, have to study that from the best reading material possible.

ii) Likes the question that has been put forth to be reframed in such a way that makes answering it easier & more holistically.

iii) Still emphasizing upon Partition & using side topics to emphasize his method of answering & researching.

iv) Started focusing upon "Integration" of the States.

v) Stated that there is a difference between "Integration" & "reorganisation".

vi) Stated that a byword of reorganisation is "redrawing" the boundaries.

vii) Focuses on keywords for correct answers.

20/8/26

i) Began with "Consequences of Partition" — 2 parts → a) Immediate/Short term.

b) Long term. Eg → Race, caste, terrorism.

ii) Starting the above i) in relation to the sub-continent — South Asia.

iii) Stated about SARC in relation to above ii).

iv) Put forth the question — "How did the Indian govt. respond to the Migration?"

v) Stated that Professor likes answers in a very concrete manner — based on the readings & actual data.

vi) Started discussing about the "Nagans" (for eg → Malviya Nagan) & its connection with Refugee population.

The Nagan Story. Prof. finds it as — I expect this is important.

vii) Subbly stated about emphasizing the distinction between the provincial government of princely States — the Dewan & the Prince/Princess.

viii) Stated about the legal status of the princely States.

ix) Stated that integration happened in 2 parts → a) Pre-Independence b) Post-Independence.

x) Stated that Case studies have to be read for the integration story.

Workspace 'Running notes' in 'Politics after Indian Independence'

- xi) Put forth the question → "State 2 case law which is connected to the Integration of princely States."
- xii) Stated about the 3 types of agreements that happened between the Union & the princely States, & the allowances given to the Princes.
- xiii) Maduroo Sabha v Union of India.

- i) Began by asking whether students have read the readings given or not.
- ii) Stated that the topics Partition & State Reorganisation are part of the Ramachandra Guha's book.
- iii) Regarded Ramachandra Guha's book to be of importance, & Prof. personally likes it.
- iv) Began with the topic of State Reorganisation.
- v) Considered the concepts of Division of States on the basis of language to be relevant to the topic.
the linguistic question
- vi) Stated that Congress was not against the linguistic segregation.
- vii) Stated that Nehru, Patel & Rajagopalachari were against the linguistic reorganisation.
- viii) Focused on the reading material / the author, the case studies — Pongal case study, Agardhalli case study.
- ix) Stated Not to confuse the linguistic with the religious identity.
- x) T. Prakasam — resigned Congress & supported the movement.
- xi) Began with how Patishwararam (follower of Gandhi) came into the picture of this movement.
- xii) Talked about his past hunger strikes & those for the movement.
- xiii) Gandhi wrote a Long Note on the character of this person (above named).
- xiv) Talked about how the Black Flag was raised in Andhra, whenever Nehru came.
- xv) Stated about the Commission the author talked about.
- xvi) Began with the story of Andhra movement.
- xvii) Stated that the Chief Minister of Bihar & WB issued a joint statement proposing that their two States be merged into one State.
- xviii) Stated talking about the Dhar Commission, JVP Commission, Fazl Ali Commission.
- xix) Stated that the Fazl Ali Commission's Report led to the 1956 Act.
3 members — none were associated with the Congress party.
- xx) Stated that for the exam — the Commission's Report is important.
- xxi) Constantly emphasising that the reading materials provided, & asked to be read, are very important for the exam.

- i) Began by stating that the "Legitimacy of the 1947 Government" was unanswered by the class — repeated this topic again in this class.
- ii) Put forth the question to the class — "what was the legitimacy of the legislations made during the period of 1947 to 1952, especially during the absence of the legislature, and the absence of the Constitution?"
- iii) Stated that we have to look at what actually happened, in order to get clarity on the processes used.
- iv) Showed slide with questions — in reference to above enumerations, "how was it both political and legal process?" and "How did the Constitution become the stabilising framework?" and "How the interrelation could be labelled as "Coerced", Conciliated and Coalesced?" and "What is the difference between Accession agreement and Merger agreement?"
- v) Stated that above iv) can be answered from the readings provided, only if read properly.
- vi) Stated about the 26th Amendment.
- vii) Showed the total number of legislations that were "passed" in each year of 1947, 1949, 1950, 1951, 1952.
- viii) Stated 4 Articles of the Constitution that acted as the stabilising framework — in order to accommodate the princely states — Art. 291, 362, 363, 366[22].
- ix) Showed slide on questions for State Reorganisation — Professor is contrary to Guha — it was not the end of the State Reorganisation but rather the beginning of the State Reorganisation. Stated that Guha's conclusion on this topic is beautiful, however, his views are as mentioned above — Put forth the question — "Why the States Reorganisation Act, 1956 was a foundational reorganisation statute, not the continuing legal source of subsequent State reorganisations?"
- x) Put forth another question with respect to the above ix) — "How were the Sikkim and Goa cases different?"
- xi) Put forth the question — "what was the Seventh amendment of the Constitution?" — showed slide on what the Seventh amendment did — a) abolished Part A, B, C, D distinction.
- xii) Stated the relation between State Reorganisation and Article 371 — stated this this needs to be discussed — stated that Article 371 is a supplementary provision for State Reorganisation, but it is not an conclusive provision, according to Professor — stated that it's not just a single article, but divided into multiple sub articles, because it is adapted to the States and their requirements. Stated the Reorganisation related case laws — 1960, 1960, 1961, 1966, 1966, 1970, 2001, 2023.
- xiii) Stated that he's going to be beginning with the Unit II with this topic — Transitioning from a reactive anti-colonial nationalism to a proactive civic nation-building project.
- xiv) Stated that repetition must not be done of the topics, but more investigation needs to be done.
- xv) With the way Professor is emphasising on the readings and his interest on the readings, I am strongly influenced on the readings being the primary source.
- xvi) Also introduced the topic of Post Independence Identity Trajectory — Core focus of identity and Major Drivers.
- xvii) For above xvi) — I have taken Picture of the slide he showed. Will upload when you say — additionally, it will serve as a small data source of his personality, on the basis of his framing of the slides.

- i) Began with posing a question on the topic — "What do you understand about the Civic Nation Building Project?"
- ii) Posed another question with regard to above i) — "Define the interpretation and meaning of the Civic Nation Building Project?"
- iii) Stated that the above i) and ii) are with respect to "immediately after the Independence".
- iv) Put the question — "India's political journey, India's constitutional journey, India's democratic journey after the Independence — what is the distinction between the 3, and all 3 fall in a different timeline, why? and How do you explain all 3 falling in different timelines?"
- v) Stated for above iv) — the political journey started with the independence, constitutional journey started in 31st January (did not hear the date), democratic journey from 1952 — first general elections. Stated that the clarity needs to be there for when the journeys actually begin, with regard to "after the Independence".
- vi) Stated again — "What is the legitimacy of the National Government?" — stated that he has been asking this question for quite a long time — I am taking this frustration as a hint that it might appear in the Exam either separately or in an analytical question format.

claim that it might appear in the Exam, either separately, or in an analytical question format.

vii) Clarified that the "Executive" is what he means with "National Government".

ix) "What 1947 Indian Independence Act proposed? This is the legal argument." — Stated that this is the key to the legitimacy of the National government question.

ix) Emphasises upon giving legal arguments since we are law students.

x) For above viii) Also stated that discussion on the Constituent Assembly needs to be done for the legitimacy question.

xi) Put another question — "What is the nature, composition and performance of the First government of India, which was formed in 1947?"

xii) I am consistently observing that Professor's classes are simply questions put to the class, with the expectation that we would be able to "argue" them, on the basis of the reading material provided and other knowledge that we possess. This is also pointing to the analytical logic format that you created.

xiii) Stated that "composition not only includes the names of the members, but also where they came from, their relevant journey."

xiv) Put question — "Whether all the members who formed, were from the Constituent Assembly? If not, where from, and how many of them?"

xv) Put another question — "Whether the first national government was a Parliamentary form of government or not?"

xvi) Stated that the "last part of the question — the "performance" part, is an evaluative form of question".

xvii) Stated that he need not expect "his" form of correct answer, he wants the argument given in the answer, to be legal and based in the readings done (essentially, they should be not factually or analytically incorrect) — of course this is not to mean that his framing should be ignored, as this statement is a pretty way to make sure that less marks are obtained, since it is always better to attune to the person "giving" the marks, therefore this statement can be ignored, or used to modify the strategy to attain to the object even more.

xviii) Stated that during the time from 1947 to 1952, the Constituent Assembly made the laws, therefore they were playing a dual role — Constitution making power and the Legislative power assigned by the section 8 (1) of 1947 Act. Connecting a part of this question to how many members there were, how was this double role being done? — what he means by "how" — How did the members differentiate between their roles as Constituent Assembly member and Legislature making member?

ix) Put forth the question — "Whether there is a difference between the Speaker of the Legislature, and the Chairman of the Constituent Assembly?"

x) Stated that — "There is a difference between Constituent Assembly Speaker and Constituent Assembly Chairman."

xx) Again emphasised on Section 8(1) of the 1947 Act, acting as the law making authorisation for the Constituent Assembly.

xxii) Also stated about the Section 8(2) of the 1947 Act — about the Government of India Act — "We thought that the Government of India Act had stopped, but this serves as a transitory permission to still operate."

xxiii) Mentioned about the "Transitional power" given by the Constitution — very important Article.

3/9/26

i) Began with a revision of the 31/8/26 class.

ii) Began with the question — "What happened to the power of the Constituent Assembly after 1950 i.e. after the Constitution came into being?"

iii) Stated that above ii) question — "Why did this question arise? ; What happened after 1950?"

iv) Stated that the Constitution had the Transitional power enumerated in it — Stated about Part XXI and the Transformation Clause (Article 379) — Article 379(1) was explicitly mandated: "Until both Houses of Parliament place been duly constituted and summoned... the body functioning as the Constituent Assembly of the Dominion of India immediately before the commencement of this Constitution shall be the provisional Parliament..." — Next enumeration in PPT Slide — Immediate Activation: While the rest of the Constitution became active on Republic Day, Article 379 was deliberately activated early on November 26, 1949. This ensured that the legal conversion of the body on January 26 was automated and valid. — Next enumeration in PPT Slide — The Executive Bridge (Article 380): To complete the state apparatus, Article 380 dictated that the person elected by the Constituent assembly as president would remain the interim president of India until the proper general elections occurred. Once the first democratically elected Lok Sabha and Rajya Sabha were formed in April 1952, these temporary constitutional bridges naturally expired.

v) Put forth the question — "What is your understanding of the Republican Transition? What is your conception of Republicanism or Republic?"

vi) Slowly going into the elements of "being Republic" and distincting between its normally known elements, and it's absolutely fundamental elements, without which the Class of Republic would not exist.

vii) Going into the irony of nations which have republic in their name, have constitutions, nations like UK which are still not republic yet people choose their own representatives — therefore there must be some other "fundamental" element whose direct consequence is actually being "Republic".

viii) Stated that according to Professor's first element — "Head of the State should be elected — there is no specification whether direct election or indirect election of such Head."

ix) Put forth the question — "What type of arrangement did India have on 1950? — we had PM before the elections" — connected it to legitimacy of the National government.

x) Stated that "The reason we called National Government the "National Government" is because it was not Congress based ministry, but inclusive in nature. The reason is not simply because it was governing the entire nation — because it is not a party based arrangement, but an interim arrangement offered by the Indian Independent Act."

xi) Stated that the question — "If Nehru was an architect or spoiler, the argument for that should be done from the reading of Performance of the National Government".

xii) Showed a statement on PPT Slide — by Patel — Sardar Patel remarked that "even the windows of the Constituent Assembly are closed for Dr. Ambedkar" and that he would "see how he enters". Discussed on the positive or negative interpretation that can be done from this. Then showed another statement — "Dr. Ambedkar's nomination has been sent to PM. I hope there would be no contest and he would be returned unopposed so that he would come here on 14th."

xiii) Unit 1, 2, 3 — Syllabus for Mid Sem exams.

DATE — 7/9/26

i) Began with the question that was asked in the previous class of 3/9/26 — "What is your understanding of the Republican Transition, and your conception of Republicanism?"

ii) Stated that Bipin Chandra is good for academics, and Guha is good for the thought process.

iii) Put forth the question — "Politics in India since Independence? — what comes to your mind?"

iv) Stated that, for Professor — "India's political journey means India's democratic journey. When we talk about "political", 2 things come to mind — a) Political parties — how the parties evolved, coalition, emergence of regional parties. We are looking at India's "political" journeys. I'm just putting the broad themes that comes when the word "political" is used. b) Democratic journey — understanding such, qualitatively, is a tough task because it is an amalgamation of so many things. He has a doubt whether someone really makes an effort to "evaluate" India's political journey." (I am taking the last line as a hint towards the question coming in the exam).

v) Stated that for "Political journey" — the first thing to look is — "India's political economic journey. We are trying to integrate the whole of such topic through one Unit." (I am not sure which Unit he means).

vi) Put forth the question to the class — "Define political economy."

vii) Stated that "95% of India's political problems, are connected to the economy."

viii) Stated that "political economy means how politics interact with the economic aspects. The intersection between economics and politics can be called as Political economy; Serious students always take into consideration the economy whenever discussing about the politics."

ix) Put forth another question with regard to the above vi) — "How do we deal with India's economic journey in a structured way, since Independence?"

x) Stated that for above ix) "First thing we need to know about are the realities, the economic realities — the GDP, level of poverty, Foreign Exchange, Industries existing in the country. All those numbers and figures are very important. Stated that 'we' are not very good at identifying the exact numbers being assigned to a particular element." Stated — "In 1947, 1 dollar was equal to how many Indian rupees? — I was around 3 rupees. Now it is 100 rupees."

xi) "How are started our economic planning? — must be talked about. There are 2 ways — a) Adopting the institutions b) Adopting the policies. — Also stated that Bipin Chandra, Professor thinks, talks about how the economic planning before the Independence."

xii) Suddenly stated that 5 year plans' success and failures needs to be understood, but before that, how each of the 5 years' plan began — simply to get the foundation clear in order to begin the bigger discussion on India's planned economy.

xiii) Stated that, students need to go beyond the jargons like socialist economy and mixed economy and actually investigate the topic, and effort needs to be done for reading material on Indian Economics.

xiv) Stated that he's going to provide very good literature for the above.

DATE — 11/9/26

i) Began with Economic Modernisation in its transitional stage.

ii) Stated for above i) — Continuity was merely a neutral term for stagnation, stated about — 1938 National Planning Committee, 1944 Bombay Plan, Gandhian Plan (1944) authored by Sriman Narayan Agarwal, People's Plan 1945 drafted by M.N. Roy.

iii) Also stated for above ii) — The planning and development department was established in August 1944 but abolished in 1946; subsequently, a Planning Advisory board was created in October 1946 by the Interim Government to review plans, and future projects, and provide recommendations; in 1947, the Economic Programme Committee was appointed by AICC; 1948 Industrial Policy Resolution (IPR); The Sarvodaya Plan, formulated in 1950 by Jaipraksh Narayan and inspired by the Gandhian Plan and Vinoba Bhave's Sarvodaya idea.

iv) Stated that the above mentioned details are obtained from Bipin Chandra's book.

v) From above, focusing on India's economic situation Post Independence.

vi) Put forth the question — "Why is the 1956 Industrial Policy Resolution known as the Economic Constitution of India? — for examination purposes, you need to know the answer to this question."

vii) Stated that Surprise test might be conducted in the week consisting of the dates 14, 15, 16, 17, 18. Most probably not on 14. Rest of the dates, are all of equal probability. Syllabus is of Unit 2. viii) Stated to refer to the 2 pages document of the Resolution, heading no. 2 and 3 very important. Questions may be asked from that. The rest of the resolution also must be known.
ix) Put forth question — “Can you identify some of the legislations which actually began the Economic journey — the economic legislations which we prepared, from 1948 to 1956? — Some of the answers are — a) Factories Act b) FERA (Foreign Exchange) c) IRDA (Industrial Development).”
x) Stated about RBI and its transformation from a private nature to a nationalised nature, also stated about SBI.
xi) Put forth the question in reference to above ix) — “Can you identify some of the individuals who played a major role in India's Economic Journey since India's Independence? — This should also be a heading under the structure of India's Economic Journey.”
xii) Put forth important question — “Why was there a broad societal consensus on the nature and path of economic development after independence? — very important question that Professor himself framed.”

i) Began with putting this question again, which was put forth in the previous class of 11/9/26 — “Why was Industrial Policy Resolution 1956, is called as the Economic Constitution of India? — It is your duty to go through the best reading material and find the answer to this question.”
ii) Stated that one of the best way to deal with the topic, is to avail the structure of Time lines, “Time line is very important”.
iii) Stated that the original document needs to be looked at, Professor will appreciate it.
iv) One answer to the question — The document foresaw 35 years of India's economy, which then was put into the Constitution of India, therefore it was a document designed to serve for a long period of time.
v) Stated that for above iv) the Directive Principles of State Policy are also in the context.
vi) Stated that the question “How was the Planning Commission established? — is very important to know.”
vii) Stated with frustration, since no one in the class was able to answer, for the question that was continued with respect to the Planning Commission, and the Resolution — “Established on 15th March, 1950 — through the Cabinet Resolution (very important), this was a Cabinet Resolution — the legal sanctity you should also be familiar with. At least look at the date and the nature. You need to look at the original document, otherwise there's not point of studying this subject. You will understand everything from the one and a half page document. What this Resolution envisioned, envisaged, that we need to understand by ourselves and not by any commentary.”
viii) Stated that the answer to the question, can be structured in 3 categories, but only for the particular period — Constitutional framework, legal framework, policy framework, but this structure will differ with different time lines/time periods.
ix) Stated the following — Identify major policies, legislations and institutions laid the foundation and transformation of economic positioning of the nation in different periods. I may ask 1946 to 1956, or 1958 to 2000, you need to have the answer for it.
x) Put forth this question as well — How the economic modernisation through legislation — the industrial development regulation act (IRDA) enacted in 1951 to the Friscal Responsibility and Budget Management (FRBM) Act, 2003 ?
xi) Stated that he likes this question — “If Mahalanobis was the chief technician of Indian planning, then Nehru was its chief missionary. Discuss.”
xii) Showed PPT on the methods he wants us to implement while answering the questions on Economy. (Took photo.)
xiii) Showed another PPT on which areas are important, supplementarily to the above, in the context of Economy. (Took photo.)
xiv) Put forth this question to the class — “Discuss India's Economic journey and Federal asymmetry.”

DATE — 17/9/26

i) Began with the continuation of the “societal consensus” that was there for the economy, after the independence.
ii) Stated that — “the consensus in a democracy is based on majoritarian support, not all support; that is why while the debates happened and contradictions happened, the consensus was still there. I am just trying to argue that societal consensus in a democracy is not that easy, because the only way to reflect that is to look at the majoritarian support.”
iii) Stated — “Unit 2 is one of the most crucial units.”
iv) Stated that these 2 documents, primarily, must be looked at (stated this again in frustration) — 1950 Cabinet Resolution, 1956 Industrial Policy Resolution.
v) Showed few of his eras, to structure, on the PPT— to discuss with respect to the different periods — Shashtri era, Indira's era, Manmohan's era, Modi's era (I think I missed a few, not sure).
vi) Professor showed a PPT — Data from World Bank, with respect to the GDP and Per Capita (will upload).
vii) Professor showed another PPT — India's Fiscal Deficit (% of GDP)(1950 to 2024).

DATE — 18/9/26

i) Began with saying that his structure and his model questions, including the ones given in the past, are all for better preparation for the mid sem exam.
ii) Showed PPT — model questions — a) How the Indian judiciary responded to the Economic Transformation?; in other words, the SC's time to time intervention in India's economic journey. b) Critically examine the role of the Supreme Court in shaping India's economic trajectory from land reforms and nationalisation to liberalisation and privatisation, with reference to landmark cases such as Kamesh Singh, R.C. Cooper, Kesavananda Bharati, and BALCO Employees' Union. c) Trace the evolution of judicial review of economic policy in India. How has the Supreme Court balanced constitutional rights, State control over the economy, and judicial deference to economic policy-making? Discuss with reference to Golaknath, R.K. Garg, Minerva Mills, and Tata Cellular. d) Analyse the changing role of the Supreme Court in regulating markets, natural resources, foreign investment and economic institutions in post liberalisation India, with reference to the 2G Spectrum, Natural Resources Allocation, Vodafone, and Property Owners' Association cases.
iii) Stated that the above ii) questions, are the kind that we can expect for the upcoming “Surprise” test. (I also expect such type being applicable for the Mid sem exam.)
iv) Began with Unit 3.
v) Put forth question — “How did the Political Parties contribute to Post Independence Nation-Building? Be specific here, and can you identify the areas in which the political parties contributed?” — showed enumerations that would answer the question — a) In post-independence India, political parties were not merely electoral organisations; they were central institutions of the nation-building project. b) Their role can be understood through the following sub-headings — 1. Political Integration: helped integrate diverse linguistic, religious, case, regional and ideological groups into a common political framework. 2. Democratic consolidation: Established competitive elections, parliamentary government, peaceful transfer of political power and democratic political participation. 3. National Unity: Provided platforms through which competition identities and regional aspirations could be commodities within the Indian Union. 4. Developmental Transformation: Political parties because vehicles for mobilising support for planning, land reforms, industrialisation, public sector development, education and welfare programmes. 5. Accommodation of Regional Aspiration: Regional and State based parties gave instructional expression to demands concerning language, territory, statehood and regional development. 6. Social Transformation: Parties mobilised historically marginalised groups and contributed to debates. 7. Role of Policy formation. 8. Opposition and Accountability: Opposition parties scrutinised governments, challenged policies and provided an institutional mechanism for holding those in power accountable.
vi) Put forth another question — “The Indian nation-state was built not merely through constitutional and administrative institutions, but through political negotiation mediated by political parties.” Analyse and evaluate this proposition with reference to the evolution of the party system since Independence.

DATE — 21/9/26

i) Began by stating that for Unit 3, he is only going to give marks for internal assessment, if we are showing him the notes that we are making on the Questions put forth in the class. (By notes he means the answers that we have written.)

DATE — 24/9/26

i) Began by stating that Professor has shared more Reading Materials on LMS. Those are also a must read for the exam.
ii) Again stated that for the Unit that is currently being continued, being Unit 3, the internal assessment will be on the answers written for the questions that have been put forth in the class. Such needs to be submitted before the Mid Sem exam begins.
iii) Put forth another question to the class — “The Indian nation-state was built not merely through constitutional and administrative institutions, but through political negotiation mediated by political parties.” Analyse and evaluate this proposition with reference to the evolution of the party system since Independence.”
iv) Put forth another question — “Analyse the role of the Indian political party system in transforming a newly independent and socially diverse population into a functioning democratic political community.”
v) Put forth another question — “How did the dominance of the Congress system in the early decades after independence contribute to, as well as constrain, the process of political integration and nation building in India?”
vi) Put forth another question — “Examine how political parties mediated between national unity and India's social, linguistic, case and regional diversity during the process of nation-building.”
vii) Put forth another question — “Analyse the transformation of the Indian party system from one-party dominance to competitive and coalition politics and its implications for the consolidation of the Indian nation-state.”

for the consolidation of the Indian nation-state.”

DATE — 25/9/26

i) Began with stating that the Reading materials provided, are a must read for the exam.

ii) Stated that all the questions that we would need to show Professor the answers to, written with pen on paper — must be shown within 1st Oct; if showing on 1st Oct, then before 4 pm.

iii) Put forth another question — “How did the emergence of regional and state-based parties alter the relationship between political representation, federalism and nation-building in India?”

iv) Put forth another question — “Evaluate the contribution of political parties to the consolidation of democratic institutions in India since independence. Has electoral competition strengthened or complicated the nation-building process?”

v) Put forth another question — “Assess whether the Indian party system has functioned primarily as an instrument of national integration or as a mechanism for articulating competing social and regional interests.”

vi) Put forth another question — “Evaluate the extent to which political parties have converted social diversity and political conflict into institutionalised democratic competition rather than threats to national unity.”

vii) Put forth another question — “Critically evaluate the role of political parties in extending political participation and representation to historically marginalised social groups and its significance for democratic nation building.”

viii) Put forth another question — “India’s diversity, to give voice to differing interests and ideas of self, rather than merely to aggregate common identities, that has saved India from the civil conflict and auto-destruction typical of so many other states.”

ix) Put forth another question — “What has protected India from such outcomes? Is it innate Indian virtue or cultural uniqueness?”

x) Put forth another question — “Rather, it is the outcome of a political invention, the intricate architecture of constitutional democracy established by India’s founders.”

xi) Put forth another question — “What sort of a nation were we? Which groups of cultures had the right to claim...?”
