

1. A, a landlord, files a suit against B for possession of a shop and arrears of rent. Later, he also sues C (B's brother) in a separate suit for damages for unauthorized subletting of the same shop. Is the second suit maintainable? If not, under which provisions.
2. "Contribution of funds for holding festivals" - is this a suit of civil nature?
3. Nine Akali sikhs sue for removal of mahant of a religious institution. The suit is dismissed on ground that the institution is a Hindu Dera and not a Sikh gurudwara. Subsequently and after passing of the Sikh gurudwara act 1925, 64 sikhs sue for declaration that the institutes a Sikh gurudwara. Is this suit barred by res judicata?
4. A sues B for recovery of ₹20 lakhs. On the date of hearing, neither A nor his counsel appears, but B appears. The court dismisses the suit for default. Later, A applies under Order IX Rule 9 for restoration, arguing that his absence was due to a medical emergency. Before the application is decided, A files a fresh suit on the same cause of action. Is the fresh suit maintainable? If A's restoration application is allowed, what happens to the second suit?
5. In 2018, Dr. Kavita, a medical researcher, filed a suit against the National Medical Council (NMC) challenging the cancellation of her research grant. She argued that the cancellation was illegal because the NMC gave her no opportunity of hearing before passing the order. The court dismissed her suit, holding that urgent cancellation in cases of suspected misuse did not require prior hearing. In 2021, Dr. Kavita files a second suit against the NMC challenging the same cancellation order, but this time on the ground that the NMC had no power under its governing statute to cancel a grant once disbursed. Is the second suit maintainable?
